Pollinators, including bees, butterflies, birds, and bats, are an important part of our ecosystem and food supply chain. Plants, like fruits and vegetables, need bees and other pollinators to help them grow.

Hi Connell/Kathy-

Based on Kathleen's message below I think it would be helpful if we put together a short summary of possible deadlines/milestones for both elevation on the water side and referral on NEPA side depending on how the decision goes. So I'm thinking we should show timelines for both rejection of permit and issuance. Can you work with Jason to put something together. It can be very short and just project out into January.

Thanks. I can then either forward it on to Alexis or bring it up to her.
Let me know if you have questions. If at possible, it would be great to do this today.

Thanks. I don't know what Alexis schedule is this week but if you could give her a quick heads up- remind her what our deadlines may be if a decision comes out before Christmas and we need to elevate. Thx
